Introduction

The US-UK Fulbright Commission recognises the right of every individual associated with the Commission's programmes, to stay safe. At the Commission we are committed to protecting from harm and abuse all those in the Fulbright and wider community with whom we have dealings in the UK, the US and elsewhere internationally as applicable. We also have zero tolerance for harm or abuse which arises from any form of power imbalance, and we are alert to the danger that our work may result in individuals being placed in a position of trust and authority which could be open to abuse. We recognise a right to protection from abuse, exploitation and harassment of all with whom the Commission has dealings, regardless of age, disability, ethnicity, gender or gender reassignment, sex, pregnancy, race, sexual orientation, religious belief or civil status. Our culture and values commit us to an environment where we respect and safeguard the rights and dignity of everyone who has dealings with the Commission and where incidents and concerns can freely be reported without fear of repercussion or retribution and in the certain knowledge of proper investigation and follow up.

This policy seeks to ensure that the US-UK Fulbright Commission undertakes its responsibilities regarding protection of vulnerable adults and will respond to concerns appropriately. The policy establishes a framework to support staff and participants in their practices and clarifies the organisation's expectations.

Safeguarding is about embedding practices throughout the organisation to ensure the protection of vulnerable adults wherever possible and responding to circumstances that arise.

Abuse can be caused by those inflicting harm or those who fail to act to prevent harm. Abuse is not restricted to any group, gender, or culture.

It can take several forms, including but not limited to the following:

- Physical abuse
- Domestic violence and domestic abuse
- Sexual abuse
- Psychological abuse
- Financial or material abuse
- Modern slavery
- Discriminatory abuse

- Organisational abuse
- Neglect and acts of omission
- Self-neglect

This policy also considers online safety, hate crime, sexual exploitation, radicalisation, forced marriage and other acts or threats as part of safeguarding.

Purpose and scope

The purpose of this policy is to:

- protect those with whom the Commission has dealings from harm, arising from the conduct of staff, grantees and event participants or from the design and execution of the Commission's programmes, events and activities
- increase awareness of safeguarding issues, promoting good practice and assisting members of staff and others to make informed and confident responses in relation to safeguarding issues
- ensure that everyone who is associated with the Commission understands their responsibilities about safeguarding and support them in meeting their safeguarding obligations
- establish a secure framework for the reporting and investigation of any safeguarding related incidents and subsequent action

This policy applies to all Commission staff, grantees, event participants and alumni, as laid out in Definitions (Appendix 1), when engaged in work or activities for the Commission, including where those activities are delivered virtually via an online environment. Commission staff, grantees and event participants will be asked to confirm their acceptance of and willingness to adhere to this policy.

The scope of this Safeguarding Policy is broad ranging, and in practice it will be implemented via a range of policies and procedures within the organisation. These include dignity at work, whistleblowing, complaints, etc. Concerns and investigations will be shared with, or referred on to, partner organisations where they do not fall within the scope of the Commission's work or activities, or where safeguarding responsibility is shared.

This policy is made available on the Commission's website for the benefit of our partner organisations and the entire Fulbright Community.

Policy statement

The Commission will adhere to the following practices and values to ensure a robust safeguarding culture.

- Safeguarding is everyone's responsibility: All Commission staff and anyone acting on behalf of the Commission is responsible for Safeguarding. Everyone must be aware of the welfare of any adults whom the Commission has dealings with and report concerns accordingly.
- The personal safety of all involved: In executing this policy, the Commission will have regard first and foremost to the personal safety, health and security of all involved

- Professionalism, respect and fairness: All involved will be treated professionally and fairly, adhering to best practice, and with respect, including individuals against whom an allegation has been made
- Responsiveness: All allegations and concerns reported under this policy will be taken seriously and dealt with in a timely manner. All safeguarding concerns will be acknowledged within 3 working days.
- Confidentiality and information sharing: Information will be received, gathered, recorded, and stored in accordance with data protection legislation. All staff must be aware that they have a professional duty to share information with other agencies to safeguard vulnerable adults. However, information will be shared on a need-to-know basis only, as judged by the Designated Safeguarding Lead (DSL).
- Adherence to all relevant legislation and Charity Commission pronouncements: The Commission, in applying this policy, will always comply with relevant legislation and industry best practice.
- Training: All staff who, through their role, are in contact with vulnerable adults will have access to safeguarding training at an appropriate level.
- Support: We recognise that involvement in situations where there is risk or actual harm can be stressful for those concerned. Staff dealing with safeguarding concerns and those involved will have access to confidential support through our Employee Assistance Programme and DSL.

Monitoring

The Commission will monitor the following Safeguarding aspects:

- Safer recruitment practices including DBS checks where relevant
- Records made and kept of safeguarding supervision sessions
- Training – register/ record of staff training on safeguarding
- Monitoring whether concerns are being reported and actioned
- Checking policies are up to date and relevant
- Reviewing the current reporting procedure that is in place
- Role of the Designated Safeguarding Lead

Reporting and investigating incidents or concerns

To facilitate the reporting and investigation of safeguarding concerns or incidents, the Commission has designated Junaina Pirbhai as its DSL for Adults. Any individual having dealings with the Commission who has any safeguarding concern in relation to Commission business is encouraged to report to the Commission's DSL or Executive Director via the Reporting a Safeguarding Concern Form (Appendix 2) where possible.

Any concerns sent in by post should be addressed to:

Safeguarding at the US-UK Fulbright Commission

Camelford House, Unit 302, 3rd Floor 89, Albert Embankment, London SE1 7TP

All safeguarding concerns, allegations or reported incidents are to be taken seriously and fully investigated.

Investigations will be pursued as set out below:

- Any allegation or incident which involves only members of staff will be dealt with under the Commission's HR Disciplinary policy
- Any allegation or incident which involves a grantee but not a staff member and which allegedly occurred on the premises of a host institution will be passed, with any relevant consents, to be investigated in the first instance under the procedures of that host institution
- In the case that the Executive Director is the subject of a safeguarding allegation, concerns should be reported to the Board of Commissioners Safeguarding Lead, who will conduct the investigation
- In the case that the Board of Commissioners Safeguarding Lead is the subject of the allegation, a suitable third-party investigator will be engaged.

Upon conclusion of any safeguarding investigation, the Commission will take appropriate action based upon the findings. If an investigation reveals evidence of criminal misconduct, the Commission will involve the Police and other agencies as appropriate. In the situation of reporting to external agencies such as the Police, those involved will be notified and consulted.

Record keeping

Scanned copies or electronic files of safeguarding and incident report forms will be saved on the shared drive. These will be retained for 7 years, after which details will be redacted to show the concern in question and the outcome of the incident.
